KURZINFO

The advantages of the CEU doctoral program are the classes and discussions among students specializing in different topics, different periods, and different geographical regions whereby new research questions can be formulated, even about one's own national history.

Alumni from the Department of History have been awarded competitive grants from outstanding institutions, such as the Universities of Oxford, Cambridge, Edinburgh, Columbia, Maryland, Michigan and Toronto.

AUSBILDUNGSBESCHREIBUNG

The department especially welcomes students with PhD dissertation research that contributes to:

- the integration of the study of different layers of historical processes (social, cultural, economic, political)
- the integration of history and theory (conscious reflection of the basic approaches of research)
- comparative approaches in historiography (Central, Southeastern and Eastern Europe being neither "different" and "incomparable," nor a "belated copy" of developments elsewhere)
